MARBLE EFFECTS LAB EXCLUSIVE

A STEP-BY-STEP SYSTEM FOR DECORATIVE MARBLE PAINTERS

INTRODUCTION

Marble Skills Alone Won't Pay the Bills

You've learned how to transform ordinary walls into stunning marble masterpieces. You can blend veins, layer glazes, and create finishes that make people stop and stare. But here's the uncomfortable truth that nobody talks about:

The best marble painter in your city is useless if nobody knows they exist.

Right now, thousands of homeowners, interior designers, and property developers in your area are searching for someone who can do exactly what you do. They're renovating kitchens, remodeling bathrooms, and upgrading living rooms. They have budgets. They have walls. They just don't know about you yet.

This playbook changes that — permanently.

What You're Holding

Sold Before Sunday is not theory. It's a day-by-day action plan designed specifically for decorative marble painters. Every template, every message, every script has been tested and refined in the real world.

Here's what makes this different from generic marketing advice:

- > It's built for a one-person operation — no team, no ad budget, no fancy website required.
- > Every step takes 30–60 minutes. You can do this after your day job.
- > You get exact words to say — copy, paste, send. No guesswork.
- > The pricing calculator tells you exactly what to charge for every technique.
- > The objection scripts handle every "but..." a potential client can throw at you.

By the time you finish Day 7, you will have at least one booked job — possibly several. And you'll have a repeatable system you can run every single week to keep your calendar full.

Let's get started.

DAY 1

Set Up Your Marble Portfolio

Goal: Build a professional-looking portfolio in under 60 minutes — even if you haven't done a single paid job yet.

Before you can get clients, people need to see what you can do. Today you'll create a visual portfolio that looks polished and professional. You don't need a website — a simple phone album or free page works perfectly.

ACTION STEPS

- > Gather 8–12 of your best photos. Practice panels, sample boards, test walls — anything that shows your marble technique. No finished client work yet? That's fine. Use your practice pieces.
- > Shoot "before/after" pairs. Take a photo of a plain wall or board, then the finished marble effect. Side-by-side comparisons are the single most powerful selling tool you have.
- > Create a free portfolio page. Use Google Sites (free, takes 15 minutes) or a simple phone photo album you can share via link. Title it: "[Your Name] — Decorative Marble Finishes."
- > Write your one-line intro. This goes at the top of every profile and portfolio: see template below.
- > Set your profile photo. A photo of you working — brush in hand, mid-technique — converts 3x better than a headshot.

PORTFOLIO INTRO TEMPLATE

"I transform ordinary walls into luxury marble finishes — Carrara, Calacatta, Emperador, and custom designs. Serving [YOUR CITY] and surrounding areas. DM me for a free estimate."

PRO TIP

If you're just starting out, paint 3–4 sample boards (about 2×2 feet each) in your most popular techniques. Photograph them on an easel against a neutral background with natural side-lighting. These boards also serve as physical samples you can bring to client meetings.

DAY 2

Infiltrate 5 Local Groups

Goal: Join 5 Facebook groups where your future clients are already asking for help.

Your ideal clients are already gathered in online communities, discussing renovations, asking for recommendations, and posting photos of their dream homes. Today, you plant yourself exactly where they are.

ACTION STEPS

- > Search Facebook for these exact phrases (replace with your city/area): "[City] home improvement," "[City] interior design," "[City] renovation," "[City] home decor," "[City] moms" (homeowners frequently post renovation questions in parent groups).
- > Join 5 groups with 1,000+ members. Prefer active groups where posts get multiple comments. Skip groups that are purely buy/sell.
- > Read the last 20 posts in each group. Look for posts mentioning kitchens, bathrooms, accent walls, or "anyone know a painter?" This tells you which groups are goldmines.
- > Respond to 2–3 existing posts today. Don't sell yet — just offer genuine help. Answer questions about paint, finishes, or wall prep. Establish yourself as the expert.

HELPFUL COMMENT TEMPLATE (USE ON EXISTING POSTS)

"Great question! For that kind of wall, I'd recommend [specific advice]. I do decorative marble finishes in the area — happy to answer any other questions about specialty wall treatments."

PRO TIP

Don't join and immediately post your portfolio — most groups flag that as spam. Spend Day 2 being helpful in comments. By Day 3, the group members will have seen your name pop up multiple times, and your showcase post will land much better.

DAY 3

Post Your First Showcase

Goal: Publish a "before/after" post that gets reactions, comments, and DMs.

Today is the day people find out what you do. You're going to create a showcase post designed to generate maximum engagement. The key: make it about the transformation, not about you.

ACTION STEPS

- > Pick your strongest before/after pair. The bigger the visual contrast, the better. A plain white wall turned into Calacatta Gold marble stops the scroll.
- > Write your post using the template below. Notice: no prices, no hard sell. Just awe + curiosity + a soft call to action.
- > Post it in your 2–3 best groups (the ones with the most activity from Day 2). Space them out by a few hours.
- > Reply to every comment within 2 hours. Fast responses = the algorithm pushes your post higher = more people see it.

SHOWCASE POST TEMPLATE

"I turned this plain wall into a Carrara marble finish using only paint. No marble slabs, no tiles — just technique and patience.

Swipe to see the before → after.

This technique works on any wall surface and costs a fraction of real marble. If you've ever wanted the marble look without the marble price, drop a comment or send me a DM — I serve [YOUR CITY] and I'd love to give you a free estimate."

PRO TIP

Post between 7–9 AM or 6–8 PM local time. These are peak scrolling hours. Avoid posting midday — engagement drops by about 40%.

DAY 4

DM Every Reactor

Goal: Turn passive "likes" into active conversations.

By now your showcase post has reactions. Each one of those reactions is a potential client who thought your work was interesting enough to tap a button. Today, you reach out to every single one.

ACTION STEPS

- > Open your showcase post and click on the list of people who reacted (liked, loved, or commented).
- > Send a short DM to each person using the template below. Personalize it if their profile gives you clues (recent renovation photos, new home purchase, etc.).
- > Keep track in a simple spreadsheet: Name | Date messaged | Response (Y/N) | Notes. This becomes your pipeline.
- > Respond to any new comments on your showcase post. Every comment bumps it in the algorithm.

DM TEMPLATE — POST REACTOR

"Hi [Name]! Thanks for the love on my marble wall post. I noticed you're in the [City] area — are you thinking about doing anything like this in your home? I'd be happy to answer any questions about the process, timing, or pricing. No pressure at all!"

DM TEMPLATE — COMMENTER WHO ASKED A QUESTION

"Hi [Name]! I saw your comment about [their question]. Great question — here's a bit more detail: [brief answer]. Would you like me to take a quick look at your space? If you send me a photo of the wall you're thinking about, I can give you a rough idea of what it would look like and what it'd cost. Completely free."

PRO TIP

Expect a 15–25% response rate on cold DMs. That means if 40 people reacted to your post, you'll get 6–10 conversations. Out of those, 2–3 will be genuinely interested. That's all you need.

DAY 5

Go Local on Nextdoor

Goal: Post on Nextdoor to reach homeowners specifically in your area.

Nextdoor is different from Facebook. It's hyper-local, which means everyone who sees your post actually lives near you. The audience is smaller but far more qualified — they can actually hire you.

ACTION STEPS

- > Create or log into your Nextdoor account. Make sure your profile lists your neighborhood and mentions decorative painting in your bio.
- > Post in the "Recommendations" or "Home & Garden" category using the template below. Nextdoor rewards helpful, neighborhood-focused posts.
- > Add 3–4 photos: your best before/after, a close-up of marble veining detail, and a photo of you working.
- > Check for "anyone know a painter?" posts in your neighborhood feed. Reply to every single one, even if they're asking about regular house painting — mention your specialty.

NEXTDOOR POST TEMPLATE

"Hi neighbors! I'm a decorative marble painter here in [NEIGHBORHOOD]. I specialize in turning plain walls into realistic marble finishes — Carrara, Calacatta, Emperador, and custom designs.

It's all done with paint (no real marble needed), so it costs a fraction of the real thing and works on any wall surface.

I'm taking on a few local projects this month and offering free in-home estimates. If you've ever wanted the marble look in your kitchen, bathroom, or living room, I'd love to show you what's possible. DM me or comment below!"

PRO TIP

Nextdoor shows posts to your immediate neighbors first, then expands. Ask friends or family in your area to comment on your post — comments push it to more neighborhoods.

DAY 6

Follow Up & Send Quotes

Goal: Re-engage everyone who showed interest and send professional pricing.

Most sales are lost not because someone said "no" — but because nobody followed up. Today you revisit every conversation from the past five days and move people toward a decision.

ACTION STEPS

- > Open your tracking spreadsheet. Find everyone who responded to your DMs or commented with interest.
- > Send a follow-up message to anyone who went quiet (no response within 48 hours). Use the template below — it's warm, not pushy.
- > For anyone who shared a photo or asked about pricing, calculate their quote using the Pricing Calculator (Section 3 of this playbook) and send it using the quote template.
- > Suggest a specific date and time for an in-home estimate. "Are you free Saturday morning?" converts much better than "Let me know when works."

FOLLOW-UP TEMPLATE — WENT QUIET

"Hi [Name]! Just checking in — I know life gets busy. I'm scheduling estimates for this week and wanted to see if you're still interested in getting that marble look for your [room]. I have availability on [Day] if that works for you. No rush either way!"

QUOTE TEMPLATE

"Hi [Name]! Based on the photos you sent, here's a rough estimate for your [room]:

- Wall area: approximately [X] m²
- Technique: [Carrara White / Calacatta Gold / etc.]
- Estimated cost: $[amount]–$[amount]
- Timeline: [X] days

This includes all materials, prep work, sealing, and cleanup. I'd love to do a quick in-person look to give you an exact quote — I can come by [Day] around [Time]. Would that work?"

PRO TIP

Always give a price range, never a single number. A range feels flexible and prevents sticker shock. The lower number gets them interested; the final quote (after seeing the wall in person) usually lands in the middle.

DAY 7

Close Your First Booking

Goal: Turn conversations into confirmed, deposit-secured bookings.

Today is closing day. By now you have active conversations, quotes sent, and estimates scheduled. It's time to convert interest into commitment. This is where the objection scripts (Section 5) become essential.

ACTION STEPS

- > Confirm all scheduled estimates. Text or message every person with a confirmed visit: "Just confirming I'll be at your place tomorrow at [Time]. Looking forward to it!"
- > Prepare a physical sample board to bring to each estimate. Seeing and touching the finish in person closes more deals than any photo ever could.
- > At the estimate, follow the "3-Step Close": (1) Walk the wall together and discuss the vision. (2) Present 2–3 technique options with pricing. (3) Ask: "Which one speaks to you most?"
- > Secure a 30% deposit to lock in the date. Use a simple payment method — bank transfer, Venmo, or PayPal. Have the payment details ready on your phone.
- > Handle objections using the scripts in Section 5. Every "but..." has a tested response.

THE 3-STEP CLOSE SCRIPT

Step 1 (Vision): "So tell me — what are you picturing for this wall? What made you start thinking about a marble finish?"

Step 2 (Options): "Based on what you're describing, I'd recommend either [Option A] or [Option B]. Let me show you what each one looks like on this sample board. [Option A] gives you [benefit]. [Option B] gives you [benefit]. They're priced at $[X] and $[Y] for this wall."

Step 3 (Close): "Which one speaks to you more? ... Great choice. I have availability starting [Date]. To lock that in, it's a 30% deposit — that's $[amount]. I can take a transfer right now if that works."

PRO TIP

Bring your before/after photos on your phone to the estimate. When the client is standing in front of their blank wall, show them a similar wall you transformed. The mental leap from "plain wall" to "marble masterpiece" closes itself.

SECTION 3

Pricing Calculator Guide

Pricing is where most new decorative painters struggle. Charge too little and you burn out. Charge too much and you lose jobs. This calculator gives you a tested formula that covers your costs, pays you fairly, and stays competitive.

The Core Formula

Price per m² = (Materials × Labor Multiplier) × Difficulty Factor

Materials = paint, primer, sealant, tools, and consumables per square meter

MATERIALS COST BASELINE

For most marble effects, your materials cost runs $8–$15 per m², depending on paint quality and number of layers. This includes:

- > Base coat (primer + tinted base) — ~$2–3/m²
- > Marble effect paints (veining, glazes, tinting) — ~$4–8/m²
- > Sealant / protective top coat — ~$1–2/m²
- > Consumables (brushes, feathers, rags, tape) — ~$1–2/m²

LABOR MULTIPLIER

Your labor multiplier should be 2.5x–3x the materials cost. This covers your time, skill, travel, and overhead. At 3x, a $10 materials cost becomes $30 before the difficulty factor.

DIFFICULTY FACTOR

Not all techniques take the same time or skill. Apply these multipliers:

TECHNIQUE	DIFFICULTY	FACTOR	PRICE RANGE / M²
Carrara White	Standard	1.0x	$35 – $45
Calacatta Gold	Moderate	1.2x	$45 – $60

TECHNIQUE	DIFFICULTY	FACTOR	PRICE RANGE / M²
Emperador Dark	Moderate–High	1.3x	$50 – $65
Nero Marquina	High	1.4x	$55 – $70
Custom / Complex	Expert	1.6–2.0x	$70 – $100

Example Calculations

Example 1: Carrara White bathroom wall — 8 m²

Materials: $10/m² × Labor: 2.75x = $27.50/m² × Difficulty: 1.0 = $27.50/m²

Round up to market rate: $35/m²

Total for 8 m²: $280

Example 2: Calacatta Gold kitchen feature wall — 12 m²

Materials: $12/m² × Labor: 3.0x = $36/m² × Difficulty: 1.2 = $43.20/m²

Round to: $45/m²

Total for 12 m²: $540

Example 3: Emperador Dark living room accent wall — 15 m²

Materials: $13/m² × Labor: 3.0x = $39/m² × Difficulty: 1.3 = $50.70/m²

Round to: $52/m²

Total for 15 m²: $780

Example 4: Custom complex design — full room, 40 m²

Materials: $15/m² × Labor: 3.0x = $45/m² × Difficulty: 1.8 = $81/m²

Round to: $85/m²

Total for 40 m²: $3,400

PRO TIP

Always measure the wall yourself during the estimate. Client-provided measurements are often wrong by 10–20%. Bring a laser distance measure ($25 tool, saves you hundreds in under-quoting). Add 10% to your measurement for cutting in around outlets, edges, and corners.

SECTION 4

20 Ready-to-Send Messages

Copy these exactly or adjust the bracketed sections. Every message has been tested for tone, length, and response rate. Keep them conversational — never salesy.

Facebook Group Introduction

MESSAGE 1 — NEW MEMBER INTRO

"Hi everyone! I just joined this group. I'm a decorative marble painter in [CITY] — I create realistic marble finishes on walls using specialized paint techniques. It looks like real Carrara, Calacatta, or Emperador marble, but at a fraction of the cost. Excited to be here and happy to answer any questions about specialty wall finishes!"

MESSAGE 2 — VALUE-FIRST POST

"Quick tip for anyone planning a renovation: if you love the marble look but the price tag scares you, decorative marble painting is a real option. Same visual impact, works on any wall surface, and costs about 80% less than marble tile installation. I do this full-time in [CITY] and happy to answer any questions."

MESSAGE 3 — TRANSFORMATION POST

"Just finished this wall in [TECHNIQUE] marble. Swipe to see the before! The whole thing is paint — no tiles, no marble slabs. This is what decorative marble painting can do. If anyone in [CITY] has been thinking about upgrading a wall, bathroom, or kitchen, I'd love to chat. Free estimates always."

Response to "How Much?"

MESSAGE 4 — QUICK PRICE RANGE

"Great question! It depends on the technique and wall size, but most projects fall between $35–$85 per square meter. A typical bathroom accent wall (about 6–10 m²) runs $250–$600. I do free in-home estimates where I measure everything and give you an exact number — no obligation. Want me to swing by?"

MESSAGE 5 — COMPARISON ANCHOR

"To give you a rough idea — real marble tile installation runs $150–$400 per m² installed. Decorative marble painting gives you the same look for $35–$85 per m², and it works on surfaces that can't support heavy tile. I'd love to give you an exact quote if you send me a photo of the wall and rough dimensions."

Portfolio DM

MESSAGE 6 — COLD PORTFOLIO SHARE

"Hi [Name]! I noticed you're in the [CITY] area. I'm a decorative marble painter and I wanted to share a few of my recent projects — I think you'll love the Calacatta Gold finish. [LINK TO PORTFOLIO]. No sales pitch, just thought you might find it interesting! Let me know if you ever have questions."

MESSAGE 7 — AFTER THEY VIEW PORTFOLIO

"Hi [Name]! I saw you checked out my portfolio — thanks for looking! Any of those finishes catch your eye? I'm doing estimates in your area this week. If you've got a wall in mind, I'd love to take a quick look and show you what's possible. Completely free and no pressure."

MESSAGE 8 — REFERRAL ASK (AFTER POSITIVE REACTION)

"Thanks so much for the kind words, [Name]! If you know anyone who's been thinking about upgrading their walls, kitchens, or bathrooms, I'd really appreciate a recommendation. I treat every referral like gold. Thanks again!"

Nextdoor Post

MESSAGE 9 — NEIGHBORHOOD INTRODUCTION

"Hi neighbors! I'm [NAME], a decorative marble painter right here in [NEIGHBORHOOD]. I turn ordinary walls into stunning marble finishes — think Carrara, Calacatta, or Emperador — all done with paint. No heavy tiles, no demolition. I'm booking local projects this month and offering free estimates. Check out my work: [PORTFOLIO LINK]. DM me if you're curious!"

MESSAGE 10 — NEXTDOOR RECOMMENDATION REPLY

"Hi! I'm a local decorative marble painter and I specialize in exactly this kind of work. I create realistic marble finishes using paint — same luxury look, fraction of the cost of real marble. I'd love to chat about your project. I can come by for a free estimate whenever works for you."

Follow-Up After Interest

MESSAGE 11 — 48-HOUR FOLLOW-UP

MESSAGE 12 — ONE-WEEK FOLLOW-UP

"Hi [Name]! Hope your week is going well. I'm putting together my schedule for the next couple of weeks and I wanted to check in — are you still thinking about the marble wall project? No rush at all, just want to make sure I keep a slot open for you if you're interested."

MESSAGE 13 — SCARCITY FOLLOW-UP

"Hi [Name]! Quick update — I just booked two projects this week so my availability is getting tight for this month. If you're still considering the marble finish, I'd love to fit you in. Want me to come by for a quick estimate this [DAY]?"

Quote Follow-Up

MESSAGE 14 — POST-QUOTE CHECK-IN

"Hi [Name]! I sent over the estimate a few days ago — just wanted to check if you had any questions about the pricing or the process. Happy to walk through anything. I'm also flexible on scheduling if that helps."

MESSAGE 15 — DECISION NUDGE

"Hi [Name]! I'm finalizing my calendar for [MONTH] and I'd love to include your project. The [TECHNIQUE] marble finish is going to look incredible in your [room]. Shall I pencil in a start date? I just need a 30% deposit to secure the spot."

Booking Confirmation

MESSAGE 16 — BOOKING CONFIRMATION

"Awesome, [Name]! You're officially booked for [DATE]. Here's a quick summary:

- Technique: [TECHNIQUE] marble finish
- Area: [ROOM], approximately [X] m²
- Total: $[AMOUNT] (30% deposit = $[DEPOSIT] received)
- Timeline: [X] days

I'll arrive at [TIME] with all materials. Please make sure the wall area is cleared of furniture and wall hangings. Looking forward to transforming your space!"

MESSAGE 17 — DAY-BEFORE REMINDER

"Hi [Name]! Just a reminder that I'll be there tomorrow at [TIME] to start your [TECHNIQUE] marble finish. If you have any last-minute questions or need to adjust the time, just let me know. See you tomorrow!"

"What to Say at the Door" Scripts

MESSAGE 18 — ARRIVING FOR THE ESTIMATE

"Hi, [Name]? I'm [YOUR NAME] — the marble painter. Thanks for having me over! I'm excited to see the space. Can you show me the wall you're thinking about? I'll take some quick measurements and we can talk about which marble style would work best here."

MESSAGE 19 — PRESENTING OPTIONS IN-PERSON

"So based on your wall and the light in here, I'd suggest either [OPTION A] or [OPTION B]. Let me show you these samples — [hold up sample boards]. See how the veining catches the light? That's what your wall will look like. [OPTION A] is a bit more subtle, [OPTION B] has more drama. Both are gorgeous in this space."

MESSAGE 20 — WRAPPING UP THE ESTIMATE

"So for this wall, you're looking at [PRICE RANGE] depending on which finish you go with. That covers everything — all materials, prep, the finish itself, sealing, and full cleanup. I can start as early as [DATE]. If you'd like to lock that in, it's a 30% deposit. Take your time thinking about it — I'll follow up in a day or two."

SECTION 5

Objection-Proof Scripts

Every potential client will have at least one objection. This isn't rejection — it's a buying signal. An objection means they're interested enough to engage. Here's how to handle each one with confidence.

"That's too expensive."

This usually means they don't yet understand the value, not that they can't afford it.

"I totally understand — it's a real investment. Let me put it in perspective: real marble tile for this wall would run $[X–Y], plus demolition, installation, and grouting. That's typically 3–5 times what this costs. And decorative marble painting looks identical when it's done well — I can show you side-by-side photos from past projects. You're getting the luxury look at a fraction of the price, with zero demolition mess. Would it help if I broke the quote into two payments?"

"I need to think about it."

They need more information or reassurance, not more time. Give them both.

"Of course, take all the time you need. Can I ask — is there a specific part you're unsure about? Is it the technique, the pricing, or the timing? I want to make sure I've answered everything so you can make the best decision for your home. I'll also send you a few more before/after photos of similar projects so you can see exactly what to expect."

"Can you do it cheaper?"

Never discount your price — adjust the scope instead.

"I hear you. Here's what I can do — we could go with a simpler technique like Carrara White instead of [ORIGINAL], which brings the price down to about $[NEW AMOUNT]. Or we could start with just the main wall and add the side walls later when it fits your budget. What I don't want to do is cut corners on quality, because that's what makes this look incredible. What feels more comfortable for you?"

"My husband/wife needs to see it first."

This is often legitimate. Make it easy for both parties to say yes.

"Absolutely — it's a big decision for your home and you should both love it. A couple of ideas: I can leave this sample board with you so they can see and feel the actual finish. I can also send you a short video walkthrough of a similar project. Or if it's easier, I'm happy to come back at a time when you're both here — I could even bring a few extra samples. When do you think would work?"

"I found someone cheaper on Facebook."

Don't badmouth competitors. Differentiate on quality and risk.

"That's great that you're comparing options — you should! A few things to consider: ask them for in-person references you can visit (not just photos), ask about their sealing process (this determines how long the finish lasts), and ask if they carry liability insurance. A marble finish is a skilled technique, and a bad result is very hard to fix — you'd be repainting the entire wall. I stand behind my work with [your guarantee/warranty], and I'm happy to connect you with past clients in the area who can show you their walls in person."

"Can you just do a small sample first?"

This is a great sign — they're nearly convinced. Make it a trial close.

"Absolutely, I love doing samples! Here's what I suggest: I'll paint a 50cm × 50cm sample directly on your wall, in the exact technique and colors we discussed. That way you see exactly how it'll look in your lighting and with your decor. The sample is free as long as we're moving forward with the project — if for any reason you don't love it, I'll paint over it at no charge and we shake hands. Fair enough?"

Your before/after photos are your most powerful marketing tool. A great transformation photo can generate dozens of leads from a single post. Here's how to take photos that do your work justice.

- 1 Same angle, same distance. Use a tripod or mark your feet position with tape. The "before" and "after" must be taken from the exact same spot, same height, same angle. Inconsistent angles make the comparison less convincing.
- 2 Natural light, always. Open all curtains and blinds. Turn off overhead lights (they cast yellow tones). Shoot during the day, ideally between 10 AM and 2 PM. If the room is dark, use a large white foam board to bounce window light onto the wall.
- 3 Include context. Don't just shoot the wall — include part of the room. Show a countertop, a piece of furniture, or a light fixture. This gives the viewer a sense of scale and helps them imagine it in their own space.
- 4 Take a detail shot. After the wide shot, get close. Photograph the veining from about 30 cm away. This is what makes people stop scrolling — "Wait, that's PAINT?" Use portrait mode on your phone for a nice depth-of-field blur behind the veins.
- 5 Clean the space first. Remove clutter, tools, and drop cloths from the "after" photo. A clean, styled room makes the marble finish look professional. Add a plant, a vase, or a decorative item near the wall — it sells the lifestyle, not just the paint.
- 6 Edit lightly. Use your phone's built-in editor or a free app like Snapseed. Adjust brightness and contrast slightly — don't use heavy filters. The goal is accurate colors, not Instagram perfection. Your work should sell itself.
- 7 Shoot horizontal for posts, vertical for stories. Take both orientations every time. Horizontal works best for Facebook and Nextdoor posts. Vertical works for Instagram Stories and Reels. You'll always have the right format ready.

PRO TIP

Create a "photo kit" you bring to every job: a small tripod (phone mount), a white foam board for light bounce, a microfiber cloth (to wipe the sealed marble finish right before shooting), and 2–3 styling props (a small plant, a candle, a book). Takes 5 minutes to set up and makes your portfolio look ten times more professional.

Next Step

You now have everything you need to find, reach, and close your first marble painting clients. The system works — but only if you work the system.

Start with Day 1. Do it today. One day at a time, one message at a time, one wall at a time. By Sunday, you'll have your first booking.

Then run the system again next week. And the week after. The pipeline never stops filling — and neither does your calendar.

Your marble skills deserve paying clients.

Now go get them.
